Subject: Sustainable Living in Sydney

To whom it may concern,

We are living in an age where everyone has a duty of care to the world in which we live. This world includes the atmosphere, the land and the waters.

Every effort must be made by as many people to ensure the sustainability of living in this great city of the world is improved at every opportunity. The Bourke St project is one such project and should be replicated often across Sydney. Our beautiful city already has too many cars, trucks and even buses and we should be supporting any initiative which encourages people to ride.

Make this happen!
